Canal in the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church, followed by singing by a barbershop quartet group.

The West Windsor Historical Society will take over the Hospital Fete grounds on Washington Road on Saturday, June 23, from 2 to 5 p.m. for the main part of its celebration. Events will include hay wagon rides, the appearance of a covered wagon drawn by oxen, an historical display, fiddlers, mime and dance presentations, a square dancing for all in the evening. Hot dogs, birch beer, watermelon and ice cream will be available during the afternoon, and a "family table" will welcome contributions of baked goods to share.

On Sunday, June 24, there will be a Canaler's Reunion and Reception at Morven, sponsored by the Canal Society of New Jersey and organized by "Captain" Bill McKelvey. Some 20 canallers are expected to attend, ranging in age from 70 to 93. They include D&R Company employees, captains, commercial boaters, pleasure boaters, yachtsmen and others.

The group will present a plaque commemorating the D&R Canal Company's first tugboat, the Robert F. Stockton, to Robert F. Stockton IV, a direct descendant of the first president of the D&R Canal Company.

Another celebration of the 150th birthday of the D&R Canal will take place at the Blackwells Mills Causeway in Franklin Township on Saturday, June 23. Starting at 9:30 a.m. there will be a "colossal" canoe race, a hike-in/bike-in sponsored by the Sierra Club, and nature walks along the canal organized by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association. Music, food, crafts, a photo exhibit, and historical displays will be featured from noon to 6.

Other ongoing events include:

An exhibit, "Ports of Call: Five Canal Communities," at Bainbridge House, headquarters of the Historical Society of Princeton, 158 Nassau Street. Historic photographs of Port Mercer, Princeton Basin, Kingston, Rocky Hill and Griggstown from the Society's plate glass negative collection, as well as a three-foot wooden model of a typical canal boat.

An exhibit, "The Delaware and Raritan Canal: A Retrospective View," at the New Jersey State Museum through 64, 65 through 69, and will open this Saturday, June 16, with a symposium from 9 to 4 at the Museum. The exhibit, on view through September 2, traces the development of the canal from its inception to its use today as a recreational resource.

The symposium Saturday will feature Christopher T. Baer of the Eleutherian Mills Historical Library, Wilmington, Del., who will discuss the Canal Age in the United States in the 1820s and 1830s; Lance E. Metz of the Canal Museum, Easton, Pa., who will describe the building of the canal and its place in the technology of the Canal Age; and William J. McKelvey Jr., of the Canal Society of New Jersey who will show pictures.

Afternoon speakers include Howard L. Green of the New Jersey Historical Commission speaking on the Politics of the Canal Construction; Ellen Denker of the State Museum, secretary to the Mayor of talking of the canal's economic impact; and Samuel M. Hamill Jr., of the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer

Regional Study Commission, giving a description of the canal's 20th century uses.

Decline of Canal. In 1871, the Pennsylvania Railroad took a 999-year lease on both the canal and the Camden and Amboy's rail connection across the center of the State. From this time on the canal showed a steady decline. After the Pennsylvania Railroad opened its parallel main line in 1893, freight traffic on the canal declined precipitously. In the early 20th century, as shipping declined, pleasure boats were seen more frequently on the canal than coal barges. In the winter of 1932-33, the canal closed as usual for the winter, but it did not open again in the spring.

The charter to the Joint Companies called for forfeiture to the State for failure to operate the canal for three consecutive years. In 1937, with 933 years left on its lease, the Pennsylvania Railroad turned the D&R Canal over to the State. The waterway between the Delaware and Raritan rivers had lasted 99 years before other modes of transportation took over, and it had witnessed an important part of New Jersey history.

Borough-Collins Compromise Appears Off, As WJDC Goes Ahead with Plans for Suits

In a move that apparently scuttles any immediate chance of a compromise solution to the controversial Collins Development project in Princeton's central business district, the Witherspoon-Jackson Development Corporation announced it has filed two suits in New Jersey Superior Court.

The first suit appeals the Regional Planning Board's approval of the Collins plan as "arbitrary and capricious." The second suit is based on the New Jersey Supreme Court's Mount Laurel decisions and argues that Collins' proposed condominium development on the Hulfish lot north of the Nassau Inn "should not be allowed to proceed without provisions for low and moderate units."

The legal action was explained at a press conference Tuesday in the newly renovated workshop of the Princeton Housing Authority at 227½ John Street. Even as the Witherspoon-Jackson representatives met with the press, their action was drawing a response from Borough Hall. Mayor Barbara Sigmund, who has attempted to create a compromise with Collins and various parties concerned about the proposed development, stated she was "sorry ... that the proceedings have come to this particular point" (see page 12), and urged continued negotiations.

Edgerstoune Group to Appeal Planning Board's Decision Concerning Russell Estate Project

Edgerstoune Association has filed an appeal to Township Committee seeking reversal of the Planning Board decision that granted preliminary subdivision and site plan approval for 56 single-family homes in a residential cluster known as the Russell Estate Project.

Owned now by Springlands Associates, developers from New York City, the 84-acre Russell estate is bounded by Constitution Hill and Edgerstoune Road homes on the east and west, and by Rosedale Road and Stockton Street on the north and south. Neighbors have been unhappy about the traffic on Edgerstoune Road that will be generated by the subdivision. They cite the numbers of cars and buses, pedestrians and bicyclists coming and going to the Hun School at early morning rush hours as the residents themselves are trying to exit onto Route 206.

Seventy-five of the 98 homeowners on Edgerstoune, Hun, Russell, and Winant Roads have formed Edgerstoune Associates. The group is represented by Frank J. Petrino of the Trenton law firm of Sterns, Herbert, and Weinroth.

In his notice of appeal filed with Township Committee last Friday, Mr. Petrino

Witherspoon-Jackson, represented by President Henry Pannell, past president Joan Hill, and founding president Walton Johnson, as well as board members Martha Hartman and Fannie Floyd, seemed determined to exhaust the legal remedies. Mr. Pannell said that the legal costs would not be met by any of the funds already donated to the cites several reasons why Committee should reverse the Planning Board decision memorialized on June 5. The application was approved, he notes, "notwithstanding the admitted uncertainty as to the capacity of the sewer line into which the Project's flows would be directed to handle additional flow."

He also claims that the

Injuries Prove Fatal To Man Struck by Car

A 75-year-old Jamesburg resident struck by a car Thursday on Route 206, died the next day from his injuries in Princeton Medical Center.

The victim, Andrew Baird, was struck at 5:46 p.m., at the intersection of Red Hill Road, by a car operated by Thomas S. Rumer, 21, 112 Sycamore Road. Still conscious, though suffering head and internal injuries, Mr. Baird was taken to the Medical Center which notified Township police at 11:31 Friday night that he had died.

The fatal accident is still under investigation by Township Traffic Safety Officer Sgt. Mario Musso. No charges have been made against Mr. Rumer.

Township Residents Alarmed at Possible Effect Of Committee's Proposed Affordable Housing Law

"This is the biggest thing to hit Princeton, the most important ordinance to come up in the history of the town."

That was the view of many of those who spoke at the third public hearing on the proposed voluntary affordable housing ordinance before Township Committee last Monday night. Committee did not take action on the ordinance Monday. Committeewoman Gail Firestone was absent, and Mayor Winthrop S. Pike announced at the outset that he wanted the recorded vote of the entire Committee on such an important matter.

Committee will meet next on Monday, July 2, at 8 at Township Hall and depending on the vacation schedules of its members may take action at that time. Meanwhile, some of the pressure for immediate adoption has been lessened because Judge Serpente, the judge assigned to hear Mt. Laurel disputes in this area, has once again postponed his meeting with the Township attorney on the Calton Homes suit until Thursday, June 28. The meeting was to have been on June 19.

Meanwhile, too, there seems to be a groundswell of citizen sentiment for a means other than the proposed ordinance to meet the Township's Mt. Laurel obligation. The proposed ordinance, which has been introduced on first reading but not formally adopted, would give builders a variety of bonus densities in return for building certain percentages of low and moderate income housing, or they may elect the option of building "as of right" and contributing money or land to a housing trust.

Many Township residents are alarmed about the densities that would result from builders taking advantage of the bonus options, or that would be required to in effect subsidize a sufficient number of low and moderate income units. Citizen sentiment cent common open space is not in one "compact and contiguous parcel," as required in the ordinance.

Furthermore, the appeal states, the development of the Russell Estate Project will have "an unreasonable adverse impact upon the area in which it is proposed to be established." Neighbors object to all 56 units having access to Edgerstoune Road and claim that the circulation plan for the project creates "an unsafe vehicular and circulation plan on the site and adjoining roads and should not have been approved."

The appellants say that safety issues raised by the Association and by the Huns School headmaster were not addressed and that a circulation plan prepared by the Association which would have limited the number of new homes with access to Edgerstoune Road was disregarded.

At its meeting Monday night, Township Committee did not set a date for hearing the appeal, preferring to ascertain whether transcripts of the hearings before the Planning Board were available first. The appeal was filed last Friday, within the 10-day time limit from the date of publication of the Planning Board's May 17 decision. It may be the last appeal of a Planning Board decision that Township Committee will have to hear. Under revisions to the state land use law that go into effect July 1, such appeals will go to the courts rather than to the municipal governing body.

Accident

According to Township police, Mr. Rumer was driving north on Route 206 at about 35 miles an hour. He was transporting some young members of a baseball team, of which he was the manager, to a game. He first noticed Mr. Baird on the side of Route 206 as he approached the Red Hill intersection.

The victim, Mr. Rumer told police, then began to walk across Route 206. When he got to the middle of the roadway, he started to run — right in front of Mr. Rumer's car. Mr. Rumer told police he applied his brakes and turned to the right, but could not stop in time.

Capt. John Petrone commented that Mr. Baird had been admitted to the

BLOCK GRANT CHANGED

For Purchase, Not Rehab. The $85,000 Federal Small Cities Community Block Grant announced back in October has undergone some changes. The amount has been whittled to $65,000 and, at Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund's urging, the purpose of the monies has been changed from general rehabilitation to home purchase in the John Witherspoon neighborhood.

The grant will now be used this way: The Borough will receive the full $65,000 and sub-contract it to the Witherspoon-Jackson Development Corporation with county approval. The corporation will buy a house, find a family to purchase it, and receive the money for it.

Upon receipt of the purchase price, 30 percent of the money will be returned to the county. The remaining 70 percent will remain with WJDC for re-use.

Mayor Sigmund's efforts to redirect the grant toward purchase arose from her feeling that there will be sufficient funds available for rehabilitation in the John Witherspoon community.

She noted that the $85,000 State Neighborhood Preservation Grant for rehabilitation in the John Witherspoon area, which was awarded the borough in June of last year will be continued.

"The grant will be renewed in the next fiscal year beginning July 1, and I am confident that we can look forward to two additional years of renewal, for a total of four years and almost $400,000 for rehabilitation work," said the mayor.

This grant, which is being administered by Michael Floyd, provides money to home owners for rehabilitation of infrastructure, such as sidewalks and sewer lateral lines, or for repairs to the house itself.

However, the monies cannot be used to retain the present housing stock for low and moderate income families.

Mayor Sigmund asserted the need to retain this stock: "We must," she said, "use every means at our disposal to shore up the community against increasing gentrification."

ORDINANCE TABLED

Jogging Rules Reduced. Runners not only object to the misnomer — "jogging" — by which the new set of rules and regulations governing running on Township roadways is known, they also object to the implication that they lack common sense.

Speaking aloud at Township

Committee hearings on the proposed ordinance, and in private to Committeewoman Barbara Cantrill, who first proposed the ordinance, they have succeeded in obtaining major changes in the provisions. At last Monday's Township Committee meeting, Mrs. Cantrill announced that she would amend the ordinance "because of the good spirit of the runners" and the "educational component" implicit in their willingness to inform younger members of the "rules of the road."

Mrs. Cantrill would delete the provisions about running facing traffic, running single file, and running on the sidewalk, because they are (sort of) covered by state statute obtaining to pedestrians. She would also delete the prohibition against running while listening to a walkman. She would retain only the proviso about wearing reflective material after dark and would reduce the fine to $25 but only after a warning had been issued.

However, Committeeman William Cherry wanted to amend her amendment to prohibit running more than two abreast. Committeeman Richard Schoch abstained from voting on Mrs. Cantrill's amendment, saying, "This is an area where we need education."

tion, not legislation," and the matter was deadlocked. Mayor Winthrop S. Pike suggested Mr. Cherry and Mrs. Cantrill resolve their differences and come in with a revised "jogging" ordinance at the next Township Committee meeting July 2.

BONDS AUTHORIZED
By Borough. Among the bond ordinances authorized at last week's Borough Council meeting were those to help finance the resurfacing of Community Park pool and the construction of a new skylight at the library.

Other ordinances authorized by council include $391,000 for road construction and reconstruction; $30,000 for renovation of Borough Hall; $91,000 for new equipment and vehicles, and $8,000 for improvements to Turning Basin Park.

Council also decreed at this meeting that all take-out food shops in the borough must provide at least one trash receptacle in front of their store.

PLANS ARE IN
For New Senior Center. The drawings and specifications for the new Senior Citizens Center in the former gym behind Borough Hall have been completed by Architect E. Harvey Meyers of Princeton, and the job has gone out to bid.

This was the word from Borough Hall, where the hope is that the work on the center can be completed by Labor Day.

Mr. Meyers, who contributed his expertise both to the Senior Center and to its tenant — the Princeton Art Association — expects construction to begin within the next three weeks.

The center will consist of a main area plus two good-sized offices. Plans for the programs to be held in the center — when it begins operation — are in the works. Right now morning, an apparent piece of junk."

Costly Combination: Fireworks and New Jersey

If you want to have a safe Fourth of July, do not play with fireworks: If you want an inexpensive Fourth, do not get caught selling or possessing fireworks.

New Jersey laws governing fireworks are very restrictive. Breaking them can be very expensive. Anyone found guilty of possessing fireworks, including sparklers, with the intention of selling, can be fined up to $1,000 (it used to be $100) or imprisoned up to six months or both.

Anyone found using fireworks can be fined up to $500 or imprisoned up to 30 days or both. In addition, under present state law, according to Township Capt. Jack Petrone, anyone found transporting fireworks into New Jersey — or within the state boundaries — can be fined up to $7,500 or imprisoned for 18 months or both. Any fireworks confiscated will be destroyed. Finally, if fireworks cause an accident, the seller may be sued, no matter who is at fault.

Only paper caps and plastic caps for use in toy cap guns are legal in New Jersey. Fireworks obviously illegal in the state include fire crackers, Roman candles, aerial rockets and the very dangerous M-80.

Thomas K. Shea, head of the Mine Safety Section's Office of Safety Compliance warns that it is the small novelty fireworks brought in from other states that have no laws on the manufacture or sale of fireworks that may cause confusion for New Jersey residents.

Any novelty package with the words "Common Fireworks" is illegal, says Mr. Shea. Some of these items may be marked "trick noise makers," "cigarette loads," "trick matches," "smoke grenades" or "toy propellant." All are illegal in New Jersey. Some of the common trade names are snap & pops, poppers and champagne poppers. Be wary of anything that gives a visible or audible effect, adds Mr. Shea. If in doubt, call 292-2096.

bridge, drop-in use, and health screening.

Mr. Meyers noted that there was a great deal of volunteer help in the gym renovation, and mentioned the contributions of the steamfitters, plumbers, and carpenters' unions as well as the Borough police department.

PAA Has Moved In. While the seniors' part of the building is waiting for completion, the Princeton Art Association has already moved into its space. The group will hold its summer sessions at its new studios in the old gym.

IBM OFFERS EQUIPMENT
For Computer Projects. Princeton University has received a major equipment grant from International Business Machines Corp. that will support a number of innovative microcomputer-based educational ventures over the next three years.

The grant, announced by University President William G. Bowen, provides equipment and technical support with an equivalent retail value estimated at approximately $6 million and culminates several months of discussion between Princeton and IBM.

During 1984-85 IBM will support seven computing-related educational experiments proposed by the University. The projects to be supported involve experimentation with different ways of integrating computing into teaching and research programs ranging from engineering to the creative arts; similar experiments in other parts of the University will be supported during 1985-86 and 1986-87.

The University's overall plan for computing currently envisions constructing a network of as many as 1,000 microprocessor-based work stations installed over the next five to seven years in 40 to 50 clusters strategically placed around the campus in academic departments and student residential areas. Each cluster would provide a substantial amount of "centralized" support for these work stations, including storage of files, communications control (both inside the cluster and to other clusters or elsewhere in the network) and high-quality printing. High-speed communications links would also be provided to tie these clusters and the University's Computer Center into a single, integrated network of resources.

The projects to be carried out under the IBM grant are designed to develop additional experience with both the technical problems and the educational opportunities of such an approach. The University plans to experiment with — and in some cases develop — the new hardware and software tools needed to achieve its overall computing objectives.

The seven specific projects to be initiated in 1984-85 encompass the University's four academic divisions — humanities, the natural sciences, the social sciences and engineering — and another in an undergraduate residential college.

MORE SHADE SOUGHT

By Shade Tree Commission. As development pressures on Princeton Township portend more office buildings, more parking lots, more roads and sidewalks, the Township Shade Tree Commission wants to make sure the leafy-green character of the town is retained.

As Anne Adriance, a member of the Commission, points out, that means thinking ahead, because it takes a while for a sapling to grow tall enough to shade cars and homes from the hot summer sun. As an example, Mrs. Adriance cites the foresightedness of the late William Howe of Howe Nurseries who, even before Prospect Street extension was cut through, planted little maple trees along the right of way as it was shown on Township maps. Today those maples form a welcoming and shady archway over the road.

The Shade Tree Commission budget covers tree and stump removal, some new plantings, and some pruning. But there is always a need for more. The Township Engineering Department has a list of some 60 trees that are suitable for planting along sidewalks and in parking lots.

The Commission helps

FITTING MEMORIAL: Although a brand new Gallery Pear tree has been planted on the corner of Quarry and Witherspoon Street in memory of Lankford Boiling, his fellow members of the Township Shade Tree Commission think that this more mature row of Gallery Pears along Birch Avenue that he tended and watched over is in his own way a memorial to Mr. Boiling. From left are Walter Mironchik of the Township Engineering Department, and Shade Tree Commission members Adela Wilmerding, Anne Adriance and William H. Thompson.

homeowners select a suitable tree for a specific spot in the Township right-of-way. The owner pays for the tree, which is installed by the Township road crew, and agrees to water it faithfully for the first year.

Memorials. The Shade Tree Commission welcomes donations of trees as memorials. There is a dogwood at the Community Park pool complex that was planted in memory of Rachel Bull, the Princeton High School senior who was killed by an intruder a few weeks before her graduation. A Gallery Pear was recently planted at the corner of Quarry and Witherspoon Streets in memory of Lankford Boiling, a member of the Shade Tree Commission.

Adela Wilmerding, chair of the Shade Tree Commission during the temporary absence of John Kuser, says that developers have been seeking the advice of the Commission on plantings, especially for parking lots. The Commission is in the process of developing guidelines for these developers, as well as a list of suggested trees.

As the Shopping Center proceeds with its plans for renovation, the Commission hopes that trees in and around the parking lots will be part of the new owner's plans — for aesthetic reasons as well as to cut down the glare and the heat coming up from hot asphalt.

But while there is always a need for more, particularly in a community that is ever changing and growing, the Shade Tree Commission is grateful for every gift that is given. Recently the Garden approved three teacher transfers for the 1984-85 school year.

Ward Campbell and Ann Johnston will move from John Witherspoon to the high school and Patricia VanNess will now be a kindergarten teacher at Community Park instead of at Riverside. Marilyn Shteir returns from a leave of absence to teach first grade at Riverside.

CONTRACT RATIFIED
For Princeton Teachers.
The new two-year teacher's contract between the Princeton school board and the Princeton Regional Education Association has been ratified. It will go into effect July 1.
During the same school board meeting in which the contract was ratified — the last session until September — the board also approved a new annual salary of $64,200 for School Superintendent Paul Houston.

The teachers' contract, which was arrived at through mediation, provides an annual seven percent raise for two years. It also provides dental insurance up to a $150 annual premium beginning the second year and an improved Blue Cross-Blue Shield Rider J contract that will raise coverage for laboratory work and X-rays from the present $150 to $400.
The first three steps of the district's increment guide were eliminated, thus reducing increment steps from 15 to

Kay Bretnall Honored
The Princeton Regional Schools' Board of Education unanimously voted a "Special Honor" to Kay Bretnall upon her retirement from TOWN TOPICS.
She was commended for coverage that has "consistently been thorough and efficient", and has provided the community with a complete and fair picture of this important segment of our community.
The board expressed its gratitude for her services to the children of our community and wished her all the best in her future activities.

12 and raising starting salaries $2,000 for beginning teachers. The new salary figures for Princeton Regional Schools' 205 teachers range from $16,836 for those who join the system now to $35,014 for teachers with 15 or more years of experience and a Ph.D. Seventy-five percent of Princeton's teachers have been with the system for 15 years or more.

Ann Johnson, a teacher at John Witherspoon, president of the Princeton Regional Education Association, and member of the negotiating team, said that she would have been happier if the teachers' group had been able to get more than seven percent for people who have been serving for 15 to 30 years or more. "The salaries were too low to begin with and they're still too low."
A somewhat different note was struck by Rosemary McGee, chairman of the school board's negotiating team.

"I was very pleased with the contract. We both got some things in the contract that we wanted, but we didn't get everything we wanted. It's a fair contract and one that's fair for the schools."

Extra Services. Still unresolved is the question of pay for extra services such as coaching and working with math and debating teams. These negotiations are expected to be completed by October and raises will be retroactive to July 1.
Contract negotiations are also proceeding for secretaries, aides and custodians.

Assistant Superintendent Jamieson McKenna received a seven percent raise, going from $52,529 annually to $56,199. Administrators, in the second year of a two-year contract, also received seven percent increases.

They are, High School Principal John Sakala, from $52,429 to $56,099; John Witherspoon Principal William Johnson, from $49,159 to $52,800; Riverside Principal George Petrillo, from $44,799 to $47,935; High School Assistant Principals Florence Burke and Norman Van Arsdalen and Middle School Assistant Principal J. Alfred Seitz, from $43,164 to $46,185.
Also, Director of Student Services Charles Huchel and Director of Curriculum Lloyd Taylor, from $44,799 to $47,935. Starting salary for incoming Community Park Principal Arthur Firestone is $45,935.

ATTEMPT IS MADE
To Enter Investment Firm.
There was an attempt made during the weekend to enter the investment firm of Tucker Anthony & R.L. Day, 100 Nassau Street.

Police report that a screen on the north side of the building had been cut open and an interior window was broken with a rock. There was a round hole at the bottom of the window below the lock and the lock was unlocked, police added, but apparently no entry was gained.

The attempted entry was discovered at 8:40 Monday morning. Police were notified a minute later.

RADAR UNIT STOLEN
From Convertible. A radar detector valued at $250 was stolen last week from a 1981 Mercedes Benz convertible while it was parked for one hour in front of 30 Nassau Street.

The unit had been mounted on the dashboard with velcro strips and was taken between 10 and 11 a.m. The victim is a resident of Stony Brook Lane.

ROBERTA'S
FOOD — Excellent SERVICE — Good AMBIENCE — Eclectic COST — Pricy
Princeton Shopping Center, North Harrison Street, Princeton, (609) 924-9640. Luncheon Tuesday through Saturday, 11:30 a.m.-2 p.m.; dinner 4-9 p.m.; Tuesday through Thursday and Sunday, Friday and Saturday until 10 p.m.; Sunday brunch, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.; Visa, Mastercard; wheelchair accessible.

A small menu but each dish is a delight

From cooking classes in her home to La Cuisine, that fine little gourmet carry-out shop on Nassau Street, to, at last, her wished-for good French restaurant in Princeton — and Roberta Churchill is doing it without a liquor license.

By the looks of business the other night, she isn't going to need one. Everyone brought his own bottle (or bottles) of wine which is marked and then corked and poured for a $2 fee per bottle. Seems excessive, but no one seemed to mind. Some even brought wines for each course.

And such courses! From a small menu that changes monthly to reflect "fresh seasonal foods," we could have chosen from the Appetizers or Accompaniments category: Asparagus Tips in Puff Pastry with a Tarragon Cream Sauce, $5.25; Baked Goat Cheese, Watercress and Spinach Sauce, $3.95; the soup of the day, Cold Cream of Sorrel, $2.50; or Artichoke bottoms, Duck Liver Mousse, Sun Dried Tomato Sauce, $4.95. (Trenton Times food editor Daisy Fitch raves about the sun-dried tomato's flavor, "essence of sunshine," she says.)

Handsome Taster chose the Baked Goat Cheese, a 50-cent-plate cylinder sitting in a discreet creamy puddle of sauce. First impressions can be deceiving, what we thought was a tiny portion, Roberta knew better. The flavors of the cheese and the sauces were intense and definitely appetite provoking. We nosed through our allotment of French bread in a wink and broke into the homemade croissants as vehicles for the cheese. A wonderful appetizer.

BUT JUST AS delicious — and icy cold, to boot — was the Cold Cream of Sorrel soup. From the main course that included Sautéed Chicken with Wild Mushroom Sauce, $12.95, and Scallops and Ginger in Puff Pastry, $17.50, HT selected Cataplans — Portuguese Shrimp of Cherrytomato Clams and Mashed Potatoes, $12.95, and 1 the Veal and Asparagus en Papillote, $18.75.

The Cataplans was beautifully served in a copper pot containing four large tender clams in their shells and cubes of just-cooked, through pork and peppers in a sauce that nipped oh-so-subtly at the tongue, but never overpowered.
When the parchment envelope containing my veal and asparagus was slit and placed before me, the aroma rising from it was so heady that I needed to have eaten a morsel. But I'm glad I did, for the veal was wonderfully tender and white and the asparagus firm and moist and bright green. A fontina cheese lay glistening between the meat and vegetable, lending both body and nourishment for the soul.

Vegetables of the evening were crisp green beans, cherry tomato halves bathed in pesto (outrageously good) and rice. Again small portions that were just right.
WHILE WE MIGHT have chosen a cheese tray with fruit at $3.75 or assorted Bassetti ice creams, $1.95, we went to the pastry cart instead where HT selected a hazelnut cake, very rich and moist and almost nut-oily. I ordered a Strawberry Shortcake from the kitchen when I heard that a homemade buttermilk biscuit was the underpinning.

Great, short biscuit, with fresh berries that were too warm — only glitch in the evening — topped with freshly whipped cream. Each dessert was $3.75.

I cannot fault Roberta for not having my grandmother's strawberry shortcake one-half a baking powder biscuit, hot from the oven, slathered with butter, topped with cold, cold berries mashed with her potato masher, topped with the lid to the biscuit and then more berries and whipped cream. Her shortcake was marvelous and so was Roberta's.
Don't miss the fine food prepared with care by Roberta and Brian Dodge, served lovingly — and in a most unlikely spot: tucked away in the center court of a shopping center. Just think, you can eat at Roberta's once a month and never get the same thing twice. That's not a bad deal at all. Roberta's is open 11:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily. 173 Nassau St., Princeton, NJ 08540. Bicycle Thefts. Three more bicycles were stolen last week in Princeton.

A $300 silver and blue Univega 10-speed was taken last week from in front of 46 Witherspoon Street where the victim, a Princeton High School student, had left it for 10 minutes. Police report the bicycle had been secured with a cable lock through the front wheel and frame and attached to a railing.

The same day, a Linwood Circle resident reported the theft of his bicycle from the PHS grounds. The bike, a 10-speed blue Fuji valued at $60, had been secured, police said, with a cable lock through the frame and rear wheel.

Township police listed the theft of a bicycle stolen Friday between 3:30 and 6 from a rack at the John Witherspoon School grounds. They described the bike as a Schwinn Phantom Chrome model.

Driver Charged with DWI. A Morristown resident, John M. Carrol, was charged last week with driving while intoxicated by Township police.

Mr. Carrol, 41, was observed by Ptl. Mark Emann slumped over his steering wheel, sleeping, at 1:16 Saturday morning at the intersection of Route 206 and Cherry Hill Road. Found to be intoxicated, he was taken to police headquarters, given a Breathalyzer test, charged and later released.

CAR IS DESTROYED

By Fire. A red Ford coupe operated by Jean Bianco of 61 Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill was destroyed by flames Thursday afternoon after it caught fire on Stockton Street near the Governor's mansion.

Mrs. Bianco told police that she had stopped the car when she smelled gas and smoke. By the time firemen arrived at the scene, however, the car was engulfed in flames and extensively damaged.

The fire, police said, originated in the engine compartment. Mrs. Bianco also lost a pair of $100 prescription eyeglasses which were in the car's glove compartment.

QUARREL IS FOLLOWED

By Assault Charge. A verbal argument early Sunday morning on Leigh Avenue — described by police as a boy friend-girl friend affair — has led to an assault charge against one of the participants.

Monica Tonelli of 81 Leigh Avenue, Hopewell, later signed a complaint of simple assault, police said, against Miguel S. Mastroianni, 24, 16 Quarry Street. Ms. Tonelli told police that Mastroianni had struck her twice in the face with his hand, cutting her over the eye, and bloodying her nose. Police report the argument took place at 5 o'clock in the morning in front of Ms. Frank J. DiBella, 244 Field-boro Drive, Lawrenceville, $80.

REFUSES TO PAY BILL
Charged with Theft of Services, Diane Rick, 29, 246 Nassau Street, has been charged with theft of services after she refused Sunday to pay a $4.03 bill at P.J.'s Pancake House on Nassau Street.

A complaint summons was signed by an employee of P.J.'s against Miss Rick who must appear in Borough Court July 18 to answer the charge.

Det. William Fitch was at the restaurant on other business and was talking to the hostess, according to Capt. John J. Bellow, when Miss Rick started yelling at the officer to leave her alone.

When a waitress brought Miss Rick a bag of leftover French Fries she had been unable to eat and a bill for a hamburger and cup of tea, Miss Rick allegedly said that she had no money and tried to walk out the door.

Detained by Det. Fitch who told her she had to pay, Miss Rick again insisted she had no money. Capt. Bellow added that police later determined that Miss Rick had enough money in her handbag to pay the bill.

WELCOME ABOARD: Officer James Delaney, 25, (left) is congratulated by Township Captain John F. Petrone, after graduating May 30 from the municipal police training class at Sea Girl Academy where he was a recipient of a merit award for leadership, scholastic achievement and physical fitness. A resident of South River, Officer Delaney was appointed to the Township Police Department on March 12. He will serve for a year as a probationary officer. Previously, Officer Delaney was a member of the South River Police Department for almost three years before he was laid off, the victim of a budgetary cutback.

PHS IS CANVAS
For Obscenities. Obscenities written in blue and white paint on doors and windows on the side of Princeton High School facing the circular drive were discovered at 1:24 Saturday morning.

Police said that the paint, still fresh and tacky to the touch, was used to write derogatory remarks about two assistant principals. In a second incident of criminal mischief at the high school earlier in the week, police were notified by an assistant principal at noon Thursday that someone had placed a firecracker behind a radiator cover located in the Tower entrance to the auditorium. The resultant explosion bent the cover and rendered it useless. "We have no suspects and no estimate of the damage," said Capt. John J. Bellow.

There was more painting vandalism at the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home on Vandeventer Avenue. Police said that yellow gobs of the oil-based paint used by artists were smeared on the building, an outside sign, doorbell speaker and sidewalk. Four nearby parking meters were also smeared with paint. Police report finding two empty paint tubes at the scene.

Cars, moving and parked, continue to be another favorite target for vandals. A Skillman resident told police that the side view mirror of his leased, 1984 Mercedes Benz had been broken off while it was parked for 15 minutes Saturday morning at the rear of 194 Nassau Street. Police report paint chips were also missing from the driver's side where it appears someone threw a stone at the car. There was no estimate of the damage.

Police received a report on Saturday of vandalism to a 1981 Honda while it was parked earlier this month on Witherspoon Lane. Both rear fenders sustained numerous scratches from a sharp instrument. The driver, a Charlton Street resident, originally reported the incident as a motor vehicle accident.

While a Princeton resident was driving his 1979 sedan down Alexander Street last week at 3 in the morning, he heard something hit the windshield. When he arrived at his Route 27 home, he checked and discovered that his windshield had been chipped and broken. He told police that it appears as if it were struck by a BB pellet. Again, police received no damage estimate. Township police report that a Jefferson Road resident parked her 1983 Ford in front of her house last week and when she returned three hours later at 10 in the evening she discovered both wiper blades had been bent and damaged. Nothing else was disturbed. Three juveniles from Princeton Township, Belle Mead and Hopewell have been apprehended and charged with using a cherry bomb last week to blow up a Stony Brook Lane mailbox.

High Marks
Ninety-eight-point-six percent of ninth graders at Princeton High School passed both the reading and math tests of the state-mandated Minimum Basic Skills test (MBS). Eighty percent scored 99.9 percent in reading; 40 percent of those tested scored at or above 99.7 percent in math.

The MBS test, the present requirement for a state-endorsed high school diploma, measures the basic skills of reading and math that can be mastered by practice and drill.

Ninth-graders also took the new, more rigorous High School Proficiency Test (HSPT) which will become a requirement for a state-endorsed diploma in 1985-86. There was no grading because passing scores have not been established by the state.

The HSPT, which differs from the MBS in that it requires students to apply knowledge and to use more advanced thought processes, conforms with the Princeton Regional School Board's priority on emphasizing critical thinking skills.

High School Principal John Sakala expressed confidence that students would continue to score at the highest level on all state-mandated tests because the curriculum stresses the teaching of higher order reasoning and evaluative skills.

BUSY TIMES ON THE SQUARE: While the war of words over Collins' plans for Palmer Square may be starting to subside, the construction activity is becoming more intense. Above, the excavation for the Chambers Street garage is well under way, while below, on the other side of the square, the old power plant building is coming down to make way for the addition to the Nassau Inn.

SEEDLINGS AVAILABLE
That affected the Princeton Shopping Center and parts of the eastern section of the Township only lasted a little over half an hour, but as one Center merchant observed, it came at the wrong time.

"It happened just at lunch time," said Flory Toto, owner of Dockside Seafood Center. (Police notified Public Service at 11:50.) "I lost lots of business because I couldn't wait on anybody." Lunch customers at restaurants and eating places in the center just got up and walked out, Mr. Toto added.

Captain John Petrone said that traffic lights on Harrison Street from the shopping center to Nassau Street were affected by the outage. Police, he said, were still waiting for an explanation of the cause of the power failure.

The word began to get out, and soon Mr. Baker had requests from sources as diverse as the landscape architects who were consultants to developers around town. One bought four, another 10, and so they went, 122 in all. There are 30 left, and Mr. Baker has decided to "go public" about his project.

The little white oak seedlings are now fully leafed out, he says, and with regular watering, can remain in their pots a while longer without being transplanted. They cost $10 each and are available at the Baker home, 1 Armour Road. Call him first at 924-0162.

Incidentally, although the venerable Mercer Oak looks as if it is on its last limbs and has seen better days — which it has — the Battlefield Park will not be without descendants of this survivor and

FEED YOUR HUNGRY TREES — with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

If you haven't fed your trees in the past two years, please read on. Feeding at times can be even more important than spraying. The problem is that most people can't tell when their trees are starving until it's too late to save them. Dead twigs, dying branches, poor leaf development, dull looking bark are definite signs. And underfed trees are extremely susceptible to rot disease and insect attack.

If you prefer to do your own work, you might consider a consultation with us at WOODWINDS (924-3500). We can give professional recommendations and suggestions that will be beneficial to your garden and to you. Do give a call, we'll be happy to be of help!

Mayor's Statement Concerning WJDC Suit

The following statement was issued by Borough Mayor Barbara B. Sigmund:

The filing of this suit signals to all of us who do not live in the Witherspoon-Jackson area the depth of genuine fear that our fellow citizens in that neighborhood feel about the very survival of their community.

The need for more low, moderate and middle income housing in Princeton Borough is perfectly clear to me and to the majority of the Council. Many of the Borough's own employees cannot afford to live within our borders. Only four of 29 Borough police officers live within the Borough. Forty percent of our volunteer firemen live outside the borders of either Princeton Borough or Township....

Mayor and Council have been working to address low, moderate and middle income housing needs since January through mechanisms like the Affordable Housing Committee of more than 40 active Borough members; the research of our consulting firm, Charles Nathanson and Company; and investigations of various specific housing initiatives by Mayor and Council. I will announce specific programs based on these efforts early next week.

I have not seen the Witherspoon-Jackson suit and have not yet been served, so I cannot comment upon it in detail. To the extent that it speaks generally to the need for ordinance revision to meet Mt. Laurel requirements, I am in accord with it. I am very sorry, however, that the proceedings have come to this particular point. Witherspoon-Jackson made an eloquent and well-documented appeal before Mayor and Council in April. Their frustration that that appeal has been ruled invalid is understandable... But I sincerely believe that their appeal and that of the other appellants was not in vain, because serious and productive negotiations between Collins and the Borough resulted from that process.

The negotiations concerned principally the housing, open space and Greenholm issues raised in the appeals. Specifically in regard to the housing issue, Collins agreed to two provisions. The first would greatly accelerate $100,000 of the air rights money to the Borough so that the Borough would have the use of that money within two months for housing needs, with another $20,000 in a year, as opposed to the present Collins-Borough agreement in which the bulk of the money for the air rights would not be available to the Borough for five years; this provision would be triggered upon the agreement of Gerald Boswell to drop the air rights suit. The second provision would provide an extra $100,000 for low and moderate income housing needs in the Borough that would be triggered on a per-unit set fee basis by the sale of the Collins condominiums.

Council members and I subsequently offered in several meetings with Witherspoon-Jackson officials to utilize the $200,000 "Collins dollars" in partnership with Witherspoon-Jackson to help shore up that neighborhood against gentrification and to add to the affordable housing stock.

Witherspoon-Jackson has judged those remedies inadequate to their needs and has thus sought remedies in court. I believe that we can still reach a local solution rather than one ordered by a court. The offer to negotiate and to further refine any agreement still stands.

WJDC Sues

group and earmarked for the preservation of existing low and moderate-income housing in the Witherspoon-Jackson neighborhood. Instead he called for concerned citizens to support the court fight by contributing to a newly created Witherspoon-Jackson Legal Defense Fund, care of Princeton Post Office Box 1194.

Mr. Johnson emphasized that the legal actions were not intended to raise the amount of money offered Witherspoon-Jackson as part of any Collins compromise. "The issue is not how much Witherspoon-Jackson will accept or demand in turn for withdrawing," he said. "The issue here is one of principle. To settle or to compromise is a euphemism for selling out to Collins. It would be wrong to think we're holding out for more money."

What concessions might the group accept? Mr. Johnson answered: "A compromise from our point of view would be if Collins offered to make 10 percent of its housing low and moderate income, instead of the 20 percent called for in Mt. Laurel. I'm not saying we would accept it, but that would be a compromise offer. The deal Collins has now is giving the Borough money it would have given anyway."

In a prepared statement, Witherspoon-Jackson asserted that "the interest of the wealthy and white in Princeton has been placed above the vested rights of the people of this historic neighborhood.... The Planning Board approved the Collins project without any serious study of the economic and social impact on the Witherspoon-Jackson area, although the Environmental Design Review Committee did point it out. When WJDC raised questions, the Planning Board refused to consider this issue on technical grounds...."

"Two of the key individuals who argued that WJDC missed the proper opportunity to raise its objections are people who were formally associated with WJDC at the time of the Planning Board's preliminary approval. We assume they deliberately refrained from advising us of the 'proper' time to raise our arguments." One of those "key individuals" was identified as lawyer Thomas Jamieson, who has represented Collins in its public hearings and whose firm represented the Witherspoon-Jackson group from the time of its inception in 1974. The other was not identified at the press conference, but was assumed to be former Borough Mayor Robert Cawley, who sat ex officio on the Witherspoon-Jackson board and who was a supporter of Collins during the Planning Board hearings.

"We're not trying to point a finger at anyone," said Mr. Johnson. "It's a reflection of our disappointment in the way the powers that be work in this community."

Mr. Jamieson responded: "When we were retained by Collins in 1981, I advised Collins to meet with Witherspoon-Jackson. Collins did that, prior to any public hearings." Until the fall of 1983, the lawyer said, "at no time did Witherspoon-Jackson object to any portion of the plan, nor did they ever talk to us about taking a position. Clearly, had they done so, we would have advised them of a conflict situation."

When the group finally raised objections in the fall of 1983, Mr. Jamieson said he immediately notified Witherspoon-Jackson that his firm and the group would have to part company. "I was surprised when they showed up belatedly in the form of Walton Johnson to object," Mr. Jamieson said.

When asked why Witherspoon-Jackson had taken so long to react to Collins, Mr. Johnson responded that one reason was the sewer moratorium that was in effect during the early stages of the Collins planning. "People were lulled to sleep," he said, "thinking that nothing could happen."

For now the action will be in the courtroom. One of the immediate legal considerations for the Witherspoon-Jackson appeal of Planning Board approval will be whether or not it has a right to appeal more than 45 days after the Planning Board decision. Witherspoon-Jackson officials said they had no information as to the court's schedule, and their lawyer was not present at the press conference. But a Collins spokesman said he expected a hearing on Friday, June 29, to decide that issue. "We appealed to Borough Council within the 45-day limit," said Mr. Johnson, "believing that that was the proper body to hear an appeal." Now that the court has ruled that Borough Council did not have that power, Witherspoon-Jackson will argue that it should still be allowed to appeal to the jurisdiction that does, which is—once again—the court of law.

—Richard K. Rein

seems to be growing for the Township to meet its obligation by issuing bonds and building the required Mt. Laurel units outright, because far fewer total units, with all the accompanying costs for roads, sewers and schools, would be needed. Jerry Palin of Bouvant Road was one who made this point. If it takes $50,000 to build a modest 1,000 square-foot house which is then sold to a low-income family for $30,000, that means a $20,000 subsidy. Mr. Palin calculates. If the Township's Mt. Laurel "fair share" is 700 such units, that means a $14 million subsidy, or a $1.8 million debt service.

On tax revenues of $16 million, that's an increase of 10 or 12 percent in the average homeowner's tax bill per year, a figure with which housing consultant Alan Mallach agreed. "I'd be willing to pay that percentage to prevent the overbuilding that will result from this ordinance," Mr. Palin asserted. He pointed out that if the 2.75 bonus density in the ordinance is applied, the Township would end up with 4,200 more homes in order to get the 700 low and moderate income units mandated by Mt. Laurel. That's a 70 percent increase over the present 6,000 homes in the township, whereas 700 units built

Thanks, Princeton Schools.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter we have sent to Paul Houston, Superintendent, Princeton Regional Schools.
On June 19 the last of our four children will graduate from Princeton High School. Louise and I have endured back-to-school nights for 24 consecutive years. Our kids have known many superb teachers and others less so. We have seen educational fads come and go. But over time the generations of kids don't really change much with their marvelous mix of passions, ideals, and dreams. Their humor remains. At graduation we've seen bananas, spoons, beer bottle caps, soap bubbles, white mice (rumored for this year). Their loyalty to family, friends, and Princeton High School remains.
Our thanks to the teachers and administrators who over the years keep their faith in young people. Louise and I are grateful for their help in raising our children. Although we don't have to endure any more back-to-school nights, I hope that we, as well as the rest of the aging population without school-age kids, will maintain our support of public education. Thanks again, Princeton Public Schools.

Transportation Appreciated.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
I wish to commend the Princeton Joint Commission on Aging for its efforts in obtaining funds for special transportation for the elderly and the disabled.
Each day between 2:30 and 5:30, a special van transports elderly and handicapped Princetonians to their doctors' appointments. Wednesday is set aside for shopping.
For those of us who can run in and out of stores at will, a shopping day is no major event. But to a handicapped person, it's a big step toward an independence that all of us, and especially the elderly and the handicapped, value so much.
My mother who is almost 82 is confined to a wheelchair. She's in good health and is able to do her daily chores. Unfortunately, she is totally dependent on others to take her to the doctor and to shop for her.
The special van is designed to carry her heavy wheelchair, so that for the past few weeks, she's been able to shop for herself. She's found renewed interest in cooking and is eagerly testing new recipes. Her lost appetite has returned. She used to say "bring me whatever you think I'd like." Now she looks forward to her shopping day.

Just as the van project made a big difference to my mother, so I'm sure it's added sparkle and cheer to the lives of the other elderly and disabled Princetonians who take part in this well-planned and effective program.

So far, the project has been limited to a two-month demonstration. I very much hope that our governing bodies will see their way to making this wonderful program permanent.

Continue Transportation.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
It's a very good thing to have the special transportation for Senior Citizens, especially for people that don't drive.
I am one of those who feel it's good to know you can go to the doctor's without being a bother to other people. Please continue.

Maryanne Telese Will Make Debut
With New York City Opera July 7

Maryanne Telese, daughter of Frank and Minnie Telese of Ewing Street, will make her debut with the New York City Opera on Saturday, July 7.

She will sing the role of Musetta in Puccini's La Boheme. Later in the City Opera season, Miss Telese will sing the roles of Micaela in Bizet's Carmen and Nedda in Leoncavallo's I Pagliacci. In addition to these roles, she will "cover" (operate equivalent of understudy) three roles, including that of Mimi in La Boheme.

Miss Telese is a petite 33-year-old lyric soprano whose voice is described as being mature and dark, even Italianate in quality. She laughs when she remembers how her mother used to say you could hear her singing clear down the block. She always wanted to sing and Broadway musicals were her goal as she began private voice lessons at age eight.

She graduated from St. Paul's School in Princeton and Villa Victoria Academy in Trenton where she sang scenes from opera in the musicals beginning in her sophomore year. She majored in voice performance at Oberlin Conservatory, receiving a B.A. in 1974 and a Master's in 1975.

After graduation she toured with Texas Opera Theater for two seasons in The Marriage of Figaro and El Capitan before joining the parent company, Houston Grand Opera, for The Merry Widow.

Last year she appeared in productions of The Marriage of Figaro with the Michigan Opera Theater, the Dayton Opera and at the Chautauqua Opera, along with appearances at the Opera Theatre of Syracuse and the Indianapolis Opera. This season she has sung La Boheme with the Piedmont Opera, The Elixir of Love with the Washington Opera, a concert with the Houston Symphony prior to her revival of Hansel and Gretel with the Houston Opera and Così fan tutte with the Miami Opera.

BUSINESS

EXPANSION PLANNED
By Prudential at Forrestal. The Prudential Development Company, a subsidiary of The Prudential Insurance Company, has launched Phase I of a new 380,000 square foot expansion within its present executive-office research park — Prudential at Princeton, Princeton Forrestal Center.

The new development, to be known as Forrestal Greens, will consist of seven three-story buildings and one-story research facilities in a clustered campus setting on 40 acres.

At the same time, Prudential announced that RCA American Communications Inc., which is involved in domestic satellite communication services, has leased the entire 130,000 square foot Enerplex North building, also situated in the Prudential at Princeton complex. RCA American is relocating to the all-glass Enerplex North building from its present headquarters also located within the Forrestal Center.

Dow Jones & Company is also taking additional space in the companion Enerplex South building, also a 130,000 square foot energy-efficient structure, which utilizes unique energy conservation technology and concepts.

In Phase I of the new development, Forrestal Greens, three buildings totaling 166,000 square feet will be built; a three-story of 90,000 square feet; and two one-story buildings offering 40,000 square feet and 36,000 square feet.

The Forrestal Greens project will combine office space and optional research and development structures, with the emphasis on flexibility of usage. Design features include sloping green mansard roofs and striking cupolas, reflecting the character of an Ivy League campus. Prudential expects to start construction in early June, and the initial timetable anticipates an early 1985 completion.

A FINE GEORGIAN MANOR HOME

2 Elm Road, Princeton

We are pleased to present for your personal consideration one of Princeton's finest Georgian Manor Homes situated on expansive, beautifully maintained grounds within walking distance of the Town and University.

Built of the finest materials, this elegant home features a spacious sunken living room with double French doors, a dramatic curved staircase, a library with hand-rubbed cherry cabinets and bookcases, and a graciously proportioned formal dining room with hand-carved marble fireplace from France. The floor plan is classic Georgian with spacious rooms off a central foyer, worthy of a statesman's penchant for formal entertaining.

The property includes a lovely circular swimming pool and a guest or pool house in the same Georgian style as the main house.

There are 3.50 beautifully landscaped acres with terraces and formal gardens, brick garden walls and iron gates. A 1.35 acre sub-divided building lot lies to the right of the main house.

All in all, a beautifully maintained, tastefully decorated estate in an incomparable Princeton location.

New Manager of Wargo Farm on Watersheds Reserve Hopes to Create a Commercially Viable Organic Farm

The problems of American farming — a result of national policy — are issues that affect all concerned with the quality of their food. Large-scale industrialized agriculture is probably a long-run failure because its use of chemicals will so seriously damage the soil; certainly it is a failure in terms of its effects on small farmers. The renewal of small farms is the sensible solution.

New York Times Book Review
June 17, 1984

The quotation from last Sunday's Times illustrates in part what brings a slender young woman of 27 to be the farm manager at the Wargo Farm on the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association Reserve.

The socially-conditioned intellectual reflex will do an automatic double-take at the notion of a woman as farm manager in a project that seeks to demonstrate the commercial viability of organic farming. But such a reaction is dispelled as one learns of the extensive experience, knowledge and commitment to farming without depleting the soil and despoiling the environment that is the earnest focus of Meg Cadoux (rhymes with "skidoo").

MAKING THE CASE FOR FARM-FRESH: As Meg Cadoux digs into composted manure at the Wargo farm, she will be seeking to stem the loss of viability of organic farming methods.

The Watersheds Association was given the 120-acre Wargo Farm several years ago and has been seeking the funds and the personnel to put it to the best possible use consistent with the organization's environmental goals. The organic farm at the University buildings had fallen into disrepair, the arable land having never been in a "real" lease to a farmer who sows it before she dear with soil runoff and show how to plant crops and trees that contribute to stabilizing soils and em- bankments. It is also the by a California woman who felt that most elementary school teachers were ill-equipped and thus afraid to teach science. With a Title IV-Vassar College for a year and a half before leaving to work in Jimmy Carter's Presi- dential campaign. She went back to college at Brown Uni- versity, graduating in 1978 with a degree in comparative literature because she "liked reading great books."

With no particular plans after graduation, she went to California to visit friends and the science courses she had missed in her undergraduate program. She returned to the east to study for a master's degree in plant protection at Cornell's School of Agriculture, graduating this past April. Through the network of organic farmers she learned of the position at the Watersheds and was promptly hired. She moved in May 1.

Role as Farm Manager. Ms. Cadoux sees her role as creating "a functioning, commercially feasible organic farm, incorporating the principles and practices of organic farming in a way that makes economic sense." She also has been hired to develop the educational potential of the farm, using interns and volunteers where feasible, bringing school children by busload to visit, and setting up experiments for educators from agricultural and com- munity colleges in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

"My vision is that this should be a good community resource," she says in her straight-forward way. "We want to emphasize the importance of farmland being right next to large population centers — not having cities in one place and farms in another, requiring transportation to link the two.

"We need to farm in such a way that it is not threatening," she continues, "and farming is threatening to people. Spray drifts across the land, nitrates get in the water. We want to show that this type of farming is very healthy for the environment, and not just the produce."

In the six weeks since her arrival, Ms. Cadoux has a garden underway. She started flats of basil, parsley, dill, lettuce and lots of flowers from seed. Laying on manure, rock phosphate, bone meal and blood meal, she rototilled a large area in which she direct-seeded carrots, beets, golden zucchini, melons, corn (both sweet and ornamental) and sunflowers as a barrier between the two types of corn. She will do foliar feeding with kelp and supplement this with

Apprentice Program Instituted By Princeton Summer Theatre

For the first time in a decade or more of summer theater at Theatre Intime's Murray Theatre, there is an apprentice program. Seven young people from area high schools who are drawn irresistibly to the smell of greasepaint and the hard work and camaraderie of working on a stage production have been accepted. According to Meg Patterson, artistic director of Summer Theatre '84 and apprentice coordinator, interviewing is still taking place for one or two more young people of high school and college age for what is essentially a training program.

The work is unpaid and demands a major time commitment. Ms. Patterson points out, but the training for anyone seriously considering a career in theater is invaluable. And the rewards of being part of the process that brings four shows—a farce, a contemporary play, a comedy and a musical—to the stage in 10 weeks are incalculable.

As Ms. Patterson sees the program evolving over the season, each apprentice will be assigned to a staff member for the duration of a show, from rehearsal through production. While one show is in production, the next is in rehearsal. The Summer Theatre company is a mix of cooperative and graduate students with a few professionalists from McCarter.

Rehearsal Crew. While a show is in rehearsal, apprentices will find themselves building and painting sets for crew; finding and sewing the costumes with the costume crew; and searching out or making props for the props crew.

One apprentice, as production assistant, will assist the artistic director in making out the rehearsal schedules and in-running the theater. Another will solicit ads from area businesses for the program and place theater ads in newspapers and radio. And everyone will take a stint selling tickets in the box office.

This week, as final and technical dress rehearsals are under way for the first show, Larry Gelbart's Sly Fox, which opens Thursday, June 21, at 8 p.m., everything shifts into high gear. Apprentices become set change crew, or dressers, or involved in hanging, focusing and running the light board. One will be designated assistant stage manager, in charge of the back stage crew and on a head set to the stage manager who is calling cues from the lighting booth behind the audience.

As Sly Fox settles into its eight-performance run, Lanford Wilson's Angels will be in rehearsal for a July 5 opening. Apprentices who worked on sets for Sly Fox may switch to costumes or publicity for Angels, for the purpose of an apprentice program is to gain first-hand experience and training in all aspects of technical theatre production, stage management, communications and the organization of a theater.

Experimental Learning. As Ms. Patterson points out, there are no classes, no formal season, each apprentice will undergo a pre-employment, instead, instruction takes place as part of a working relationship with the production. The next is in rehearsal. The Summer Theatre company is a mix of cooperative and graduate students with a few professionalists from McCarter.

Days will generally be spent one half in the scene shop, one half working on the upcoming production in one or another area of interest or assignment. Evenings of performance and painting sets as backstage running crew for crew; finding and sewing the costumes with the costume crew; and searching out or making props for the props crew.

One apprentice, as production assistant, will assist the artistic director in making out the rehearsal schedules and in-vidence, R.I., during high school. Her second summer, she had graduated to the journeyman status of wardrobe mistress.

Teaching Staff. Having taken every class the Program in Theatre and Dance offers, she has her heart set on becoming a director. She stage managed Oedipus this year and directed Good Person of Szechuan and American Days at 185 Nassau Street. She is enthusiastic about the idea of having an apprenticeship program and says the staff that she and co-director David Haysa, Princeton '84, have assembled are equally interested in being teachers.

"It creates a real group feeling to have people around who are learning," Ms. Patterson says. "There is something about the enthusiasm students bring. When you are involved in four shows in 10 weeks, you need that enthusiasm."

Although Ms. Patterson stresses the need for commitment, she is willing to accommodate the part-time outside jobs that apprentices may be involved in. She is also willing to consider apprenticeships of a certain number of weeks rather than the whole season. For information call her at 452-8181.

SEASON'S OPENER AT OPEN AIR: Tom Moffit and Maureen West wage the classic "battle of the sexes" in Shakespeare's comedy, "Taming of the Shrew" which opens the season June 20 at The Open Air Theatre in Washington Crossing Park.

SHAKESPEARE FIRST In Park Season. William Shakespeare's classic comedy "Taming of the Shrew" will open the season at The Open Air Theatre of Washington Crossing State Park in Titusville. The production is by the Shakespeare '70 company. "Shrew" will star Tom Moffit as Petruchio and Maureen West as Kate. John F. Erath, a professor of English at Trenton State College, who specializes in Shakespeare, Renaissance and Restoration drama, will direct. Gail Erath, his wife, designed and executed the costumes, and Gerald E. Guarnieri, Trenton's Arts Commission Chairman, designed the scenery. Sharon Starling is the stage manager.

Also in the cast are Lee Harrod and Howard Goldstein, both professors at Trenton State, John Anastasio, station manager at radio station WHWH, and two Pennsylvania attorneys, Colin Jeni and David Friedman. Each has appeared in area productions. The cast also includes John Erath III, Chris Erath, Wendy Yazujian, Tom Curbishley, Tom Causey, David Geisler, Ileen Freedman, Jon Harrod, Jesse Sheppard and Robin Hunt.

The show will run Wednesday through Saturday, June 20 to 23. Tickets are at the box office. The curtain is at 8:30 p.m.

ITALIAN DUO NEXT In Summer Cinema '84, The Night of the Shooting Stars and Amarcord, two classics in contemporary Italian cinema, will open the second week of Summer Cinema '84. They will be shown Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 7:30 and 9:30, respectively, at Kresge Auditorium, Washington Road.

Set in a Tuscan village and its environs during the closing days of the war in Italy in 1944, The Night of the Shooting Stars is a series of vignettes and anecdotes filtered through the memory of a woman who was six at the time and is now telling the story to her daughter. Comedy, tragedy, vaudeville and melodrama intermingle; terrible atrocities appear side by side with magical visions.

The program's co-feature, Amarcord, is Federico Fellini's reminiscence of his youth in a small town in fascist Italy. The film combines the concerns of his early neorealistic comedies with the fantastic style of his later films. Full of tales—some romantic, some slapstick, some bawdy, some elegiac—the movie is a funny and moving evocation of life itself.

Beginning Saturday, June 23, and running through Monday, June 25, Summer Cinema will show two domestic dramas whose common subject is divorce and its effect upon the modern family. The first, Shoot the Moon, showing at 7:30 each night, stars Albert Finney and Diane Keaton as the Dunlapes, who live outside San Francisco with their four daughters. Despite their seemingly idyllic life, their 15-year marriage is about to end, for George Dunlap is seeing another woman and walks out on his wife. The script deals with the intense emotional dislocation that follows.

Kramer vs. Kramer also deals with the "death of a family." Dustin Hoffman plays Ted Kramer, a self-absorbed executive insensitive to the needs of his wife (Meryl Streep). He is stunned one day when she walks out on him and their seven-year old son (Justin Henry). Now compelled to concentrate on his son, Ted puts enormous energy and love into being a father, only to have his wife return after 18 months to claim custody. Kramer vs. Kramer may be seen at 9:45 June 23-25.

June Opera Festival Produces Splendid 'Marriage of Figaro'

For the past few years Michael Pratt and Peter Westergaard have teamed up to produce some fine operas with the Princeton University Opera Theatre. This summer they have transcended that role and have obtained a sizable grant from Merrill Lynch and Co., Inc., to give the Princeton area what it has long desired — a completely professional opera festival.

The June Opera Festival of New Jersey began its opening season on Friday evening at the Kirby Arts Center. Lawrenceville School, with the first performance of its splendid production of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro." With the combined forces of members of the New Jersey Symphony and professional vocalists from this region, Messrs. Pratt and Westergaard have mounted a production which rivals those of the great music festivals of this country.

The performance of the opera heard on Sunday by this writer was magnificent in every way.

The singers assembled for the festival are most extraordinary. Individually they are gifted artists of high calibre without a weak voice among them.

Matthew Lau played a strong Figaro, and his solid baritone voice was uniformly powerful throughout his range. Martha Elliot's Susanna was colorful, warm, and very expressive. Cherubino was charmingly portrayed by Meredith Stone. Her aria early in Act II elicited the first of several shouts of "brava" from the audience. Both Barry Ellison (Count Almaviva) and Linda Wall (the Countess) sang strikingly beautiful arias in the third act, and Mark Cleveland gave a humorous touch to the role of Antonio.

If a weakness were to be found in the vocal work, it lay in the many ensemble pieces. While these were generally well done, the singers would occasionally get slightly behind the beat, causing some choppiness in the vocal lines and blurring of the text. Invariably these moments passed quickly, thanks to Mr. Pratt's indefatigable concentration and the clarity of his conducting.

Under Mr. Pratt's baton, the members of the New Jersey Symphony gave a virtually flawless reading of a long and arduous score. Intonation and ensemble were perfect throughout, though the zeal of the orchestra's playing occasionally overbalanced the singers.

Mr. Westergaard's English translation of the Italian libretto was witty and very accurately phrased with the music. His stage direction revealed his uncanny ability to make visual sense out of an incredibly convoluted plot.

Set designs by Alan Muraoka gave an impression of stateliness without being overbearing. Consequently, scene changes were done efficiently, helping to move the pace of the opera. Period costumes by Gregg Barnes and wigs by Charles Elsen Associates added greatly to the 18th-century flavor of the production. Rick Butler's lighting, though occasionally spotty, highlighted the subdued colors of the set and included some stunning sunlight effects.

In addition to the opera (which can be heard again June 22, 24, 27 and 30), the Festival will feature three concerts of vocal and orchestra music. If the reader has not already purchased tickets for any of these fine musical events, it is strongly suggested that he do so. This marvelous festival is too good to miss.

MUSIC
NEW POST FOR PRATT
At New England Conservatory, Michael Pratt, co-founder and music director of the June Opera Festival of New Jersey, has been appointed to the conducting faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Mass. The appointment begins in September.

Mr. Pratt has been conductor of the Princeton University Orchestra since 1977. He will remain in his post as conductor and director of the June Opera Festival. "It was a difficult decision to leave Princeton and the university. So, I will look forward each summer to the June Opera Festival — to come back to an area and to audiences that I hold in high esteem," he said.

A graduate of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, New York, the 35-year-old conductor has studied under Otto Werner Mueller at Yale, Franco Ferrara and Gunther Schuller at the Berkshire Music Center, Gustav Meier at the Eastman School of Music, and others. In the past few years he has conducted the Cathedral Concert Orchestra in Newark, the Aspen Opera Theatre at the Aspen Music Festival, and orchestras at the Manhattan School of Music.

In his new position, Mr. Pratt will conduct the Conservatory Repertory Orchestra, one of the wind ensembles and will teach an undergraduate and a graduate conducting course.

CELIST, PIANIST
In Choir College Concert. The Westminster Summer Music Series will present the Gabriel Morales - Rena Fruchter Cello and Piano Duo on Thursday, June 21, at 8:30 in Bristol Chapel. The duo was recently featured in performance on New Jersey Network's "State of the Arts." Cellist Gabriel Morales and pianist Rena Fruchter will perform a program of works which include J.S. Bach's Sonata for Cello and Harpsichord No. 2 in D Major; Schumann's "Fantasy Pieces," Op. 73 for Cello and Piano; the Debussy Sonata for Cello and Piano; Four Allegri by American composer Seymour Barab, and the Sonata for Cello and Piano by English composer Frank Bridge.

Admission to this concert is free. Call 921-3202 for a complete listing of free summer music events at Westminster Choir College.

HYMN SINGS PLANNED
At Choir College. Every Monday evening through July, Westminster Choir College sponsors a Hymn Sing and welcomes everyone to join the singing.

The hymns are selected along a central theme, by a different guest conductor each week. The music begins at 8:30 in Bristol Chapel on the Westminster campus and admission is free.

The first will be led by David Weadon, director of music at Princeton Theological Seminary. The following week, Helen Kemp, an authority on children's choirs, will conduct "Hymns for the Young at Heart." John Kemp will lead "A Tribute to Hymnologist Erik Routley," on July 9.

QUALITY IN LUGGAGE
At Luttmann's. Exquisite taste pervades a shop on Witherspoon Street where the finest quality leather goods are sold. Word has travelled that Luttmann's Luggage has one of the best selections of fine luggage, ladies handbags by famous designers, attache cases, hundreds of leather gift items, and everything necessary for a discriminating traveller. Customers come from all over this state, and even from New York City, to choose their leather at prices which are more competitive than those found in the well known city stores.

"My customers go for quality; that is what sells; nothing can replace it," states the owner of the shop, Bruce Crandall, who moved to Witherspoon Street three years ago. Luttmann's has been a familiar sight here for more than 80 years. Mr. Crandall clearly enjoys showing his clients the hundreds of top grain leather cases, passport cases, billfolds, credit card cases, and a number of address and other books for business use in varying sizes. Travellers from Princeton will go in style this summer with a gift from Luttmann's. Hanging travel bags for quick arrivals, totes, under-the-seat sized luggage, travel kits which include an alarm clock, jewel cases, and two types of money belts, one of which also hides that vital passport case.

There is a beautiful leather-bound book for every interest at Luttmann's, beginning with a ship's log (Mr. Crandall is an avid yachtsman). One can also find stunning wine albums, visitor's books, photograph albums which are personally gold-embossed by the owner, a guest register, and handsome leather folders made of U.S. steerhide (five ounce weight) which have inside pockets for bits and pieces of papers, letters and reports as well as a full sized pad of legal paper and which are especially made for Luttmann's.

Gifts for Men. Gifts for men are often the most difficult to find. Gifts of leather, masculine in feeling, durable, and useful, found at Luttmann's include good looking brush sets, a travel case for neckties, pocket-size note pads set in leather, and a large executive companion which features a calendar, note pads and pockets to file papers.

A beautiful bright red Tuscan calf letter case will make a thoughtful gift for anyone special. Attache and briefcases for men and women begin at $140 and are seen in calf, belting and harness leather to mention a few. Stunning imports from Germany are exquisitely crafted. A custom-made case from England has kidskin on the inside and leather throughout (no cardboard or vinyl!)

Ladies will delight in the new collection of handbags for fall, many of which have arrived already. Dooney and Bourke coach bags, Ghurka all-leather or twill and leather, a glorious selection of imported bags from Germany, Morris Moscovitz, and Leplat bags in black, burgundy, brown, navy or taupe are accessories which will last for many years. Mr. Crandall promises a collection of some more exotic evening and dress bags in unusual skins for the fall season.

German boxed calf luggage made for Luttmann's for ladies and gentlemen, Valors, Halliburton, Hartman, and Lark luggage are found in the shop.

Our new imports are among the finest leather goods I've seen so far and I've seen a lot of beautiful leather!" says Mr. Crandall with enthusiasm. Store hours are from 10 to 6 daily except for Friday when the shop is open until 8.

GOAL IS NEAR
For Forest Jewelers. Mitchell Forest has almost achieved a goal which he set for himself when he opened his jewelry store at Nassau Street a few years ago. His philosophy of "old world excellence" has attracted a number of steady customers who are looking for one-on-one service, a quality the owner views as essential to a successful business.

"The shop is becoming just what I wanted it to be, a quality neighborhood store where people feel comfortable about coming in just to look at our jewelry and chat about everything in general. We have made a lot of good friends so far," says Mr. Forest. Although he has a teaching degree and taught for some years, the fine art of jewelry making has always fascinated Mr. Forest, who learned his trade from the age of 18 as an apprentice to a famous Argentinian goldsmith considered to be one of the world's master coppersmiths.

"If you take time with people, listen to their concerns, a business such as ours based on service can be very satisfying," says the owner. In the past two years in Princeton Mr. Forest has designed hundreds of beautifully crafted gold pins, pendants, earrings, bracelets, necklaces and rings set with dazzling stones. Settings range from the most contemporary angular lines to the classic and more traditional.

While some goldsmiths jealously guard their design prerogatives, Mitchell Forest welcomes his customers' input.

"The shared experience of working on a piece of jewelry together is what I enjoy most. I act as their hands," says the jeweler who has a poetic way of looking at things. His volume of business attests to the town's favorable reaction to his work, much of which can be seen in handsome display cases or on Mr. Forest's workbench which is the nucleus of the small shop.

Looks the Part. Leather apron and all, Mr. Forest looks the part of an old world goldsmith although he is only in his early thirties. Tiny bits and pieces of gold, precious stones (most of which are in the vault), and precise tools are a familiar sight on his workbench.

"It might seem chaotic but I know where every single piece lies. If anything is moved, I know!" continues the jeweler. He has just finished an impressive cornucopia, set with gorgeous stones, representing more than 40 hours of work.

and fashioned from a flat sheet of gold!

There is good news at Forest Jewels. The shop will reset and redesign old pieces which may be out of style for its customers. So check in your jewelry drawer or in the bank to see what might be transformed into something more wearable. Estate jewelry, art nouveau and Victorian pieces are also available here.

Mr. Forest spent several years learning lapidary work. He cuts, polishes, and appraises fine stones. Those looking for the perfect diamond will be pleased to know that the shop has a fine selection of unmounted diamonds from which to choose. Several beautiful settings are on display including those featuring blue topaz, emeralds, rubies, and tanzanite.

Fourteen and eighteen carat gold earrings with pearls and diamonds, designer earrings, as well as one-of-a-kind pairs made by the shop are popular choices. An unusual pair of Mobe pearl earrings are stunning.

Wedding rings, original designs, have been in the spotlight at Forest Jewels recently. Handsome Florentine gold, wide bands for men, and unusual contemporary designs will catch the bridegroom's eye.

To Tell Time. Bulova clocks, wooden wall and desk models, and watches are sold here for men and women. Other brands by Citizen, Pulsar, and a new company called Jaz, French designs using Seiko movements, have received a good amount of attention of late.

Fresh water pearls and gem quality cultured pearls are available in the shop, as are several lovely necklaces of precious beads with stones such as garnet and amethyst. Add-a-pearl necklaces, keepsakes for little girls, are wonderful gifts.

Father's Day was an especially happy occasion for Mr. Forest, who is celebrating the birth of his second child and first daughter, Rebecca. At three weeks her father has already set aside a string of pearls and diamond stud earrings for his pride and joy.

A talented young apprentice, Ruth von Goeler, has joined Forest Jewels for the summer. Described by her employer as "outstanding," she came to the shop through a cooperative program with Princeton High School and the town's merchants. Fortunately for the shop, Miss von Goeler will be attending Princeton University in the fall.

Manager Pearl Owen, who enjoys the atmosphere of personal commitment at Forest Jewels, says Miss von Goeler is doing a "terrific" job. Store hours are from 9:30 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday.

POST 76 IS 2-3

In Legion Baseball. Five games into a 27-game season, Princeton Post 76 has won two and lost three and is in a good position to make a run for the playoffs if the hitting starts to come around.
"We have three goals," said second-year manager Larry Bender. "To finish over .500, to make the playoffs and once in the playoffs to win some games."

"It's not that bad of a start," continued Bender. "Four of our first five games were away. The next five are at home and I'm hoping the home field will be an advantage for us." Post 76 plays its home games at Strubing Field on the Princeton University campus.

"We're a young team but I think we could surprise some people," Bender pointed out that he loses only five, including two starters from this year's squad at the end of the season.

In those first five games, Post 76 has batted .170 as a team. That's been a disappointment. "The pitchers," commented Bender, "are going to throw strikes. That's been the surprise," Bender added.

In its most recent start, an 8-7 loss to Trenton, "We finally got some hits with men on base," noted Bender. "I knew we were not a .170 hitting club. We aren't going to be overpowering at the plate but we should be about a .250 club."

down at the plate on a fine relay from left fielder John Nalbano to shortstop Alan Soltez to catcher Charles Whited.

Pierson took the loss, his first, while Anthony Buccì got the win.

Hamilton Has Lead. So far, form has held up in the Legion standings. Hamilton, one of the pre-season favorites, leads with a 5-0 record, while Ewing, another pre-season choice to capture the league crown, is a game back at 4-1.

Bordentown, Hopewell and Broad St. Park are all bunched at 3-2, while Princeton and Mitchell Davis are knotted at 2-3. Hightstown, Lawrence and Trenton are all 1-4.

The second, third, fourth and fifth-place teams will compete in a double elimination playoff starting August 2 at Mercer County Park for a berth in the state tournament.

The league champion earns an automatic berth in the state competition.

In earlier games last week, Post 76 bowed to Hopewell, 10-1, and defeated Hightstown, 5-3.

Hopewell scored three runs in the first on two Post 76 errors and Pete Engels' double. Engels went on to destroy the losers by adding a single in the fifth and belting a three-run homer in the seventh.

Princeton's only run came in the fifth on a homer by Walker. Arenas who was reached for nine hits, including another homer by Hopewell's Frank Schermerhorn, was charged with the loss.

Against Hightstown, Princeton got only four hits but it took advantage of five errors by Post 148 for its win. Pierson got the win.

Until Saturday's game, Bender commented that his squad had been stealing most of its runs, taking advantage of errors, walks and passed balls to push a run across the plate.

"I've done a lot of giving everybody a shot in the beginning," said Bender who reported he has had five different lineups for the first five games. "But the lineup is starting to settle down; I know who is going to be playing where."

Bender is counting on a settled lineup, a home field advantage and possibly some more timely hits to add up to a string of victories for his young club.

Organic Farm

There is one territorially insistent rooster that came with the farm, but plans call for hens (chicken droppings are more highly prized than horse manure on an organic farm), a couple of pigs, maybe some ducks and geese. "Low maintenance animals," Ms. Cadoux points out. "We really want to focus on the crops."

Greenhouse. Too. Another project for the immediate future is a greenhouse, which she hopes to have finished in time for seeding next year's crops in flats during the late winter months. There are also plans to spruce up the farm, re-roofing and re-siding some of the buildings this summer, installing plumbing and electricity.

"This is a great setting," Ms. Cadoux says, gazing happily out her kitchen window. "I just love being here and I want to create a nice kind of feeling for everyone who comes here."

A four-wheel drive tractor with front-end loader, bush-hog and rototiller is on order, but there are a number of other items of farm equipment that Ms. Cadoux needs. A Troy-built push rototiller, for instance, as a tax-deduction to the Watersheds; a chisel plow; a tractor-trailer on which to cart the tractor; a manure spreader and more manure, especially poultry droppings; a good truck, either estate body or full size; and interesting seed varieties, or suggestions from knowledgeable gardeners as to what varieties work well in New Jersey clay soils.

The new farm is the most extensive project ever launched by the Watersheds Association. As Director Jim Gaffney points out, the Watersheds Reserve has always been a model for land use management of forests, meadows and migratory flyways. "We would like to extend that model to include appropriate agricultural use as well," he says.

Standing Her Ground. Ms. Cadoux says she admires the Watersheds for hiring her. Raised in an atmosphere in which boys and girls were treated equally, she finds that there is about a 30-second interval in which a man, perhaps another farmer, meeting her for the first time says in surprise, "You're the farmer?"

"You've got to say 'yes,' meet their eyes and stand your ground. If you don't cower in those first few seconds, you can continue as equals and go about your business," she says. The Watersheds has its new farmer. That she's a woman is irrelevant.

What Happens in Town Before You Get Up? Take a Walk with Our Early Rising Observer

Notes from the journal of the longest day:
4:06 a.m.: The clock radio begins to blare the hard rock of WAPP-FM — it's too early for WPRB, which normally occupies this frequency. I am preparing to chart the movements of Princeton's morning people, and I have chosen to do it Thursday, June 21, the summer solstice.

4:28 a.m.: Except for the newspaper delivery vans and the droning Elgin White Wing street cleaner, a lonely pedestrian has Nassau Street to himself. The first good morning of the day goes to Donald Thompson, who works the graveyard shift at the gazebo in the University driveway adjacent to Nassau Presbyterian. He expects little traffic until 6:30 or so, when workmen begin to arrive. Administrators are late risers — the first of them won't arrive until about 7:30.

4:34 a.m.: The first sound of birds chirping. Their tone seems less lyrical than at night, more nervous, reminiscent of a Planning Board meeting.

4:40 a.m.: The first cup of coffee of the day, preceded by the first entertaining remark of the day. Both are provided by the WaWa market on University Place, the only place in town at this time of day. We ask if the coffee is fresh. "Everything at WaWa is fresh," responds night manager Lisa Wanzor, a University student, "including the employees."

4:45 a.m.: Stanley Sadovy, a driver for Princeton-Windsor News Service, arrives at WaWa with several bundles of papers. He starts his days at 3:15, except on Saturdays and Sundays, when he sleeps in until 4:45 a.m. He loves it. "It takes a certain breed to do this. I haven't missed a day it'll be six years in August." The enthusiasm of Mr. Sadovy, 67, is not shared by his younger colleague, Gary Alexander, whose route takes him over to the Princeton Shopping Center at this hour. "Socially the world's set for 9 to 5, and you have to take your old lady out once in a while. You never fall into a pattern."

Borough Landmarks Ordinance May Be Revived

Old ordinances in Princeton never die. They do fade away — for years sometimes — until they are brought forward again at a time deemed propitious by their proponents.

And now appears to be the time for a re-entry of the Landmarks Ordinance, whose most recent appearance was in the Township in 1982. This past Tuesday, a bus left Borough Hall at 8 a.m. for a tour of historic landmark districts in Burlington City and Haddonfield Borough.

Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund and Joint Historic Sites Commission Chairman Charles St. John were the "tour leaders;" both are strongly in favor of a Borough Landmarks Ordinance. The invitation list also included members of Borough Council, the Chamber of Commerce, the Planning Board, governing boards, and Borough officials.

In addition, representatives of bodies previously opposed to such an ordinance were asked to come along. These include Princeton University, the Princeton Theological Seminary, and the real estate industry.

The group toured historic landmark districts in Burlington and Haddonfield, towns that are said to have experienced a good deal of success with such ordinances.

Why has the Joint Historic Sites Committee picked this time to approach Borough Council for a Landmarks Ordinance? It has been six years since Council withdrew such an ordinance before it reached a vote. The reason: heavy opposition from many quarters.

Mr. St. John feels it is more important

Sigmund's Proposal for Affordable Housing Would Minimize Density and Tax Increases

Mayor Barbara Sigmund has proposed a two-pronged plan by which the Borough could provide housing opportunities for low and moderate income residents without significant density increases and without raising property taxes.

Mayor Sigmund called a press conference Monday to outline her proposal which uses an innovative lease/purchase mechanism to build new units and a housing trust for "shoring up" the remaining low and moderate income housing in the Borough against what she called "galloping gentrification."

The lease/purchase housing program, devised by Homeownership Group of Wilmington, Del., that she proposes is structured around the sale of a tax-exempt short term (2½ year) revenue bond issued by the Borough or a housing authority and backed by pre-sold mortgages. As a revenue bond it would not have an impact on the taxpayer, Mayor Sigmund pointed out, and could have a rate as low as 7½ percent. A pre-determined number of units would be under contract to tenants/homebuyers who are approved for mortgages before the bond is marketed. Houses are then constructed under a turnkey arrangement with a builder. Tenants are required to put up an initial deposit of $1,000.

During the lease phase, rent payments are sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds while allowing equity of from $6,000-$8,000 to be built up for the tenants to use as a down payment at final settlement. At the end of the lease period, tenants settle on their properties, using the initial deposit, the equity generated through the rents and the mortgage proceeds. The bonds are paid off using these proceeds, and the Borough or housing authority has no further obligation.

Homeownership Group of Wilmington, which has implemented similar programs in New Brunswick and other cities, says that the initial development and construction costs for each unit could be 10 to 15 percent
